Why the Law is changing

The Housing Control Law was a reaction to the impact of WWII

- primary focus is on controlling who can live in Local Market housing
- only a small % of the population is 'controlled' by the Law

Shift in political focus from housing to population

- Guernsey needs to have the right make-up of people to meet the States social, fiscal & environmental objectives
- the Housing Control Law isn't the right tool for the job

Guernsey's demographic challenge

- ageing population = more demand on services
- smaller working population = more financial pressure

Population Management Timeline

2011 – 2014

- Island-wide consultation & framework of new system agreed by the States

December 2015

- States approved new population objective – focused on meeting the States’ strategic policy objectives, not absolute numbers
